The Mental Health Services Oversight and Accountability Commission (MHSAOC) contracts with several organizations to conduct statewide mental health advocacy on behalf of specific stakeholder populations receiving services in California’s Public Mental Health System. In addition to local and state-level advocacy activities, these agencies conduct statewide outreach, engagement, education, training, and research to support community participation and improve mental health outcomes for these stakeholder populations. Each of the agencies listed below are responsible for coordinating with local networks of advocates throughout the state.
